While I realize the extent of this funding crisis and the sense of urgency surrounding it, I do not view leasing the Turnpike as a part of the solution. My colleagues and I currently are weighing a number of transportation funding options at the moment and I am confident that after all options, proposals and recommendations have been weighed, the General Assembly and Administration will construct a feasible and permanent funding plan that will allow Pennsylvania to adequately maintain its deteriorating roads and bridges, and keep its mass transit systems up and running to serve the citizens who depend on them.

Sincerely,
